

WHEN DO I NEED AN NDA?

When presenting an invention or business idea to a potential partner or distributor

When sharing financial, marketing information with potential buyer of your business

When showing a new product or technology to a prospective buyer or licensee

When receiving services from a company or individual who will have access to sensitive information

When allowing employees access to confidential information to do their job